In order to fly with your road bike, you have to pack it into a bike case, box or bag. On one hand, bike bags are cheaper as they're lighter and so you avoid any supplementary charges from the airline, however, they don't normally offer the same protection as bike cases. That's why we created the all-new SCICON AeroComfort Road 3.0 TSA Bike Travel Bag – providing case-level protection with the weight and form of a bike bag.
